The Redwater Quilters Guild has a new home

By Megan Suitor

The Redwater Quilters Guild has a new home in the Redwater Alliance Church. Members of the guild moved supplies over and set up at their new location, with their first meeting taking place on January 14.

The group meets every two weeks, with the next meeting taking place on January 28. Meetings will take place every two weeks until the final meeting for this session on May 11, before resuming in September.

Redwater Quilter's Guild president Peggy Turner stands with her first quilt in front of the guild's new meeting location at Redwater Alliance Church.

Thorhild County to conclude Radway Post Office dealership agreement

Thorhild County has made the difficult decision to notify Canada Post that it intends to conclude its dealership agreement as the operator of the Radway Post Office in six months. This decision comes after years of the county subsidizing the post office operations through property tax dollars collected from all county property owners.

An annual savings of over $65,000 will result from the County releasing the Radway Post Office operations back to Canada Post.

Postal services and related operating costs are the responsibility of the federal government. While unique for a municipality to operate a post office in Alberta, Thorhild county entered into a dealership agreement with Canada Post to fund the operation several years ago. However, the costs of running the post office continue to rise.

"Throughout the past few years, Council revisited and examined the rationale for a municipality to incur costs to offer a federal service," said Reeve Joyce Pierce.

The county is budgeting $125,700 to operate the post office in 2023; $40,000 in revenue is estimated. Of the operating costs, $20,000 is used for fixed building costs - this expense would remain as the county owns the building. In addition, the revenue generated from the operation of the Post Office is forecasted to cover only 50 percent of labour costs. As such, over $65,000 would still be required to subsidize the operation even without any other expenses, such as building-related costs.

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Redwater RCMP Report October

During the month of October, Redwater RCMP responded to a total of 397 calls for service, which included:

- Arson (x4)
- Break and enters (x19)
- Discharge firearm while being reckless
- Mischief (x17)
- Theft of motor vehicle (x7)
- Motor vehicle collision (x33)

On October 13, 2022, at approximately 9:00 a.m., Redwater RCMP was dispatched to a call of an abandoned trailer, located south of Redwater. When the officer arrived to investigate, they located a truck with the trailer and approached the driver. As the officer approached, the male driver of the truck fled from the officer. For public safety reasons, the officer did not pursue the vehicle, but as the driver passed him the officer was able to positively identify the male suspect.

On October 21, 2022, at approximately 12:14 p.m., Redwater RCMP responded to a 911 call reporting that the complainant had located suspects from a recent theft from a family member’s property and provided the suspect’s location to officers. Officers were able to locate the suspects and attempted to stop them, who were in a stolen truck. The truck fled from the officer.

For public safety reasons, the officer did not pursue the suspect but was able to confirm the driver of the vehicle as the same male suspect from the October 13 investigation. Other officers were able to conduct surveillance on the vehicle until such time that it dropped a male passenger off, who was then subsequently arrested.

On October 22, 2022, at approximately 3:43 p.m., Redwater RCMP was dispatched to a call of a break and enter that had taken place the previous night. It was reported that the culprit had stolen 2 trucks, 1 trailer, and had broken one of the windows to the residence, along with damaging other property, prior to departing. Through surveillance video, the investigating officer was able to again identify the same above male suspect as the individual responsible.

On October 22, 2022, at approximately 8:30 p.m., Redwater RCMP received a 911 call from a property owner who reported that they had observed on their surveillance system, a truck entering their rural property and departing a short time later. Officers attempted to stop the vehicle, but the vehicle fled from officer who, for public safety reasons, did not engage in a pursuit. Officers continued to conduct patrols in the area and were able to locate the suspect vehicle parked in a field, with the driver being passed out in the driver’s seat. The male driver was identified as the same male suspect from the events earlier in the day, as well as from October 13 and October 21. The male suspect was arrested on these matters and was also found to have warrants for his arrest.

Town of Smoky Lake welcomes new business into town

Smoky Lake Mayor Amy Chernywchan presented a plaque to Dawn and Becca Rottacker in appreciation for the opening of their business.

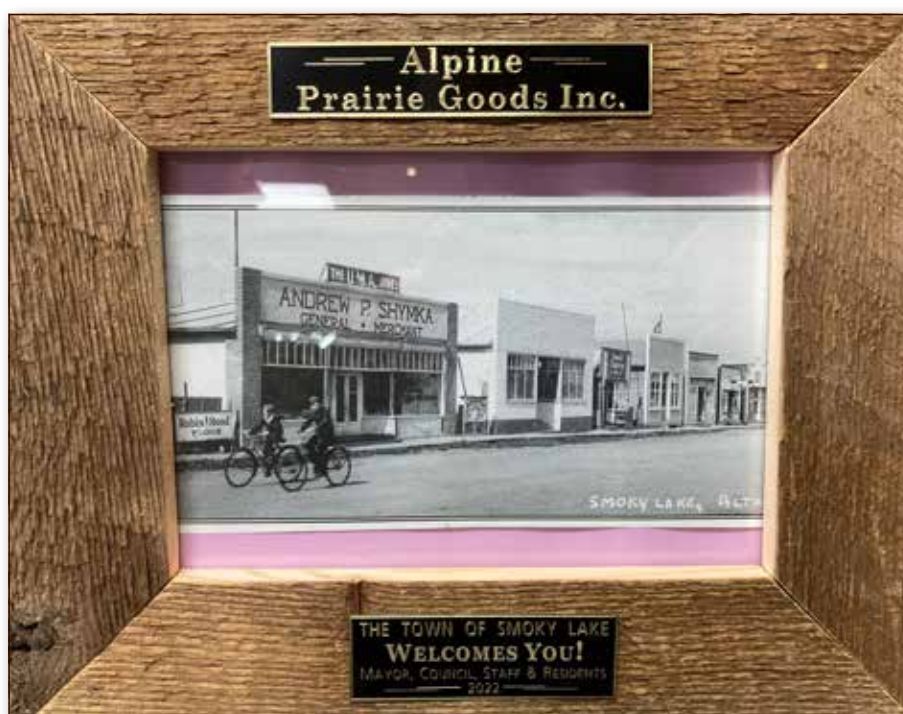

By Irene van der Kloet

On Wednesday, January 18, the Town of Smoky Lake presented a plaque to Alpine Prairie Goods, a new business in town. The town typically presents a plaque to every new business as a token of appreciation. "Welcome to the community, and for taking the risk of opening a business in town," the mayor, Amy Chernywchan, says while presenting the plaque. She is accompanied by the CAO, Dawn Phillips, and Barbe, one of the staff members. At the beginning of December, the smoothie bar that sells freeze-dried goods, called Alpine Prairie Goods, opened on White Earth Street in the town centre. They had been distributing their freeze-dried products throughout the region for some time before they decided to take the plunge and open a business with smoothies, freeze-dried fruits and other freeze-dried goodies. Dawn and Becca Rottacker (they are not sisters, they are not even related: Dawn was married, got divorced, and Becca married the divorcee.) The ladies, who are best friends, first came up with an idea in May 2022. "We started as a freeze-dried business, sold in gas stations and local stores, and then decided to expand to smoothies. We sold at Métis Crossing, at the rodeo, and now we sell out of Gibbons as well." They opened the store in the first week of December in Noel's Place, next to the post office, and have been so busy that they can't take on any more business or will have to hire extra staff, which is quite remarkable for a smoothie business in the middle of winter. "We had one guy come in saying, 'you guys are bold to open this in the middle of winter,'" Dawn says with a laugh. Becca further explains, "If it keeps going the way it is, we'll need to hire more staff going into the summer." They are currently open two days a week, Monday and Wednesday, from 11 to 5. "With summer coming, maybe we need to be open an additional day, but we have a lot on our plate, so we need to be very mindful of opening another day," Dawn comments. "With freeze-drying the goods and selling them, we almost have two businesses simultaneously," Becca adds. They are not planning on adding other products- maybe light lunches down the road. "Starting, we wanted a machine for ourselves and for it to pay for itself, so that is how we ended up running a business," Becca says. "I should add, I also make jewellery," Dawn comments. "I use a lot of semi-precious stones; make bracelets, earrings, and moss art." The jewellery will eventually be offered for sale in the business. Down the road, she will make jewellery using a soldering iron. They are considering inviting other people to display their art, but that decision has not yet been made.

The plaque shows what the current location of Alpine Prairie Goods looked like in the olden days.

The group meets to share ideas, work on items, and create quilting projects that members make both for themselves and to donate.

"We have plans to make at least four or more charity quilts in this session," shared Peggy Turner, President of the Redwater Quilters Guild. Members are welcome to share in working on the charity quilts or complete their own work.

The new location has lots of space for the quilters to spread out, and Turner said that new members are always welcome.

If community members are just interested in what the guild is getting up to, "people are welcome to stop by to see what we are doing and ask questions," explained Turner.

Appeal regarding RV Campground in Hamlin denied

By Irene van der Kloet

In a previous publication, we discussed the appeal filed with Smoky Lake County regarding developing an RV campground near Hamlin. The decision was finalized on January 4 (not on January 19, as previously mentioned, because the 15 days for the decision were calendar days, not business days). The County's Development Appeal Board's (DAB) decision is that the appeal is denied, while the decision of the development authority is upheld, with some conditions being varied. Some conditions include the development of a maximum of 200 RV sites instead of the planned 400 sites; the developer needs to provide a stormwater development plan; and a site assessment from a wetland authenticating professional is required. These are the primary conditions attached to the decision by the DAB, among 37 conditions. Appellants and developer Richard Kimmitt were asked for their reactions to this decision. The appellants are pretty happy with the decision. As one appellant says: "We feel it is a start and are probably going to the Ombudsman, as we are looking for accountability from the county. We want the county to start listening to us, and our concerns. We think Mr. Kimmitt manipulated the county and started working on this project beyond the original permit." Another appellant mentions it as a win: "It was a foregone conclusion that the appellants would be denied in their appeal. It is not a loss. The plan designed for a flat area in southern Alberta does not apply to an area here. The fact that [the allowed number of RV sites] was reduced to 200 sites is realistic. My question is, will the county ensure their decisions are followed up on? The meeting also brought up ethics. We were promised a land use agreement through the correct process. That hasn't happened. We are also wondering how they will repair the internal operations of the County of Smoky Lake; how will they certify the Development Officer?

The CAO was against the project, and two out of five councillors voted against it. If it had happened in the western neighbourhood have its say. I think the appeal board did an excellent job. They [some people in the neighbourhood] are complaining that the county screwed up and thought they would have more input with an area structure plan, but that is incorrect. I have had three open houses, and the people complaining were here for the open house, so over a year, they had the opportunity to say what they had to say. An area structure plan for one campground would have been too expensive for the county. When it comes to cutting down trees, I have planted more trees back than I have cut down." The appellants can appeal to the Alberta Court of Appeal on a question of law and jurisdiction within 30 days after the issue of the decision (January 4).

are happy with the decision. We've got two decisions that we're currently dealing with. One is about a possible wetland; a wetland specialist is working on that. The other is to ensure the stormwater drainage plan is done up. I can live with the 200 sites, and as we get bigger, we can apply for another 100 or 200 sites. And 400 sites for this area is not a lot, as there are RV campgrounds with 800 sites in a smaller area. The people complaining are not immediately affected neighbours; technically, they don't have the right to complain, but the appeal board allowed it and decided to let the part of the county, the vote would have been different." Richard Kimmitt, the developer, shared his side of the story: "We

The theme for the Winter Reading Program is Adventure Awaits at the Library and will run until February 28. Participants can sign up at the library and receive a reading log book, or they can choose to sign up and log their reading online. Prizes are available through the library as well as through the Northern Lights Library System.

If community members don't want to commit to the reading program, the

The Redwater Library is also having a friendly competition for Family Literacy Day on January 27. "We will be competing with all of February also includes Family Day, and the library will be taking part in the festivities at Pembina Place with a craft table for community members to enjoy.

Library staff are already looking ahead to the spring months, and plans are in the works for both March and April. A beneficial program for anyone looking to learn more about computers will be run by Sturgeon Adult Learning and hosted by the library for two four-week programs in March and April. Wilberton is also hoping to get more programs geared towards teens in the community running, and mentioned that teens should keep an eye out for a survey that will be available in the coming months with a chance to win a prize just for sharing an opinion.
