The Friends of the Redwater Public Library, a group of volunteers, engage in fundraising activities throughout the year to provide additional resources and programs to the Redwater Public Library. The group strives to sponsor a minimum of one program annually for the benefit of the local schools. On April 8, the Friends of the Redwater Public Library brought Don Levers, a local author, to address the students of Redwater High School in the afternoon, followed by the author's visit at the Redwater Public Library in the evening.

Don Levers is the author of two children's books featuring the Ogotogo and Loot for the Taking (inspired by an actual event of a robbery in Vancouver). Levers most recent book Our Father's Footsteps, takes readers on a journey of "What if" moments based off historical documents and family letters. The book uses historical context and facts mingled with creative non-fiction to give voices to four different men, telling their stories and experiences of World War 2.

Don Levers shared that the inspiration behind his book came from a conversation with Gord Steinke and an upcoming trip to Normandy. Steinke remarked how great it would be to walk in your dad's footsteps. This conversation left a lasting impression on Levers and set the foundation for "Our Father's Footsteps." The library provided a serene atmosphere, and he was able to settle into a regal chair and read from his book, sharing with the audience the sacrifices of the soldiers and the significance of the war.

The library visit was quiet and personal, inviting conversation from the audience, sharing their own personal histories and family experiences. Don Levers readings were engaging and pulled listeners into the private lives of four different soldiers through "what if" thoughts and words. The stories were interspersed with humorous moments and punctuated his historical documents and photos. Levers managed to draw the audience into the everyday moment and then set them amid the chaos of battles.

"Our Father's Footsteps" incorporates real excerpts of family letters and notes and features a variety of historical photos to bring readers into the lives of three Canadian and one British soldier. The stories are a poignant reminder of the men who would never return home, the ones who never had a chance to become fathers, who never had a life beyond their enlistment into World War 2. However, it was also a reminder of all soldiers of all wars, the stories of ordinary people falling in extraordinary circumstances. The stories pull deep reflections of one's own fathers and little piece of Canadian history that they all leave behind.

The foreword by Gord Steinke reads, "Through Don's intense attention to detail, battle logistics, dates, times and places, the reader is taken on a spine-tingling journey through the horror, chaos, and confusion of D-Day. One can almost smell the gunpowder and hear the cries of the wounded and dying. Don Levers book trailer can be found www.donleversbooks.com.

Public Safety Minister addresses RCMP vacancy rates

By Brandie Majeau

Mike Ellis, deputy premier and minister of Public Safety and Emergency Services, held a rural media roundtable event on April 15, 2024, to discuss the currently tabled Bill 11, the Public Safety and Emergency Services Statutes Amendment Act 2024. If passed, Bill 11 will enable the creation of an independent police agency to augment and support other police services in the province, including the RCMP.

Ellis began his opening statement with an impactful presentation of RCMP statistics in Alberta. Alberta currently has over 1900 authorized RCMP officer positions; however, the current number of officers is 1498, with over one hundred of those officers on leave. This is a 21.6% vacancy rate of these important positions. He expressed the bottom line that Alberta is paying for services it is not receiving.

Ellis, drawing on his own experience in the police force, highlighted that when someone dials 911, they expect a police officer to arrive and assist them, regardless of whether they live in a remote community in rural Alberta or downtown Edmonton. However, this expectation is not always met. Nonetheless, he clarified that this is not a fault of police officers who work tirelessly on the frontlines within the RCMP services. He expressed his respect and gratitude to the hardworking officers. He explained that this is a staffing issue, not just in Alberta but across Canada. As communities reach out for help, Ellis aims to empower communities to meet their individual needs.

As discussions on the panel focused around RCMP recruitment issues and concerns that Bill 11 would have an increased impact on the RCMP vacancy rate, Ellis maintained a stance of "Boots on the ground," repeatedly emphasizing the need for more visible presence and rural police coverage, especially in rural Alberta, stating concerns that there are areas without 24/7 policing coverage. The quickest way to conduct police-like functions in Alberta is to train individuals to perform tasks that are already being carried out by the Alberta Sheriffs.

As Ellis concluded

the rural media roundtable, he re-emphasized the importance of visible police presence in rural areas and the role of Alberta Sheriffs, their policing functions and duties, and ability to attend emergency situations promptly. Mike Ellis stressed; this is a quicker approach than addressing the challenges of recruitment for the RCMP. "We don't have time," commented Ellis, "rural Alberta needs help."

Vilna Pool Hall recognizes volunteers and contributors

Photos courtesy of The Historic Vilna Pool Hall and Barbershop

By Brandie Majeau

On April 13th, 2024, the Friends of the Historic Vilna Pool Hall and Barbershop organized a special event to express their gratitude towards the people who have played a significant role in the success of the pool hall and museum. The event was a grand celebration that acknowledged the valuable contributions made by several individuals who have worked tirelessly to preserve the rich history and cultural significance of the pool hall and barbershop. It also recognized the importance and donations made by individuals who contributed monetary donations, volunteered their time, musical talents, or donated personal period items to the back residence museum. The event also recognized Mrs. Violet Preston, founding member and past secretary of the Historic Vilna Pool Hall and Barber Shop.

The appreciation/recognition event also paid its respects to Denise Hanson, who was fondly referred to as "Cookie." Denise was affectionately known as the BBQ master and was loved by all. She has recently passed away on February 19, 2024. The event provided a perfect occasion where those present could reflect on the legacy that Denise had left behind. The attendees shared stories about the good times they had with Denise, and how she had touched their lives in a positive way.

The atmosphere at the pool hall was electric with excitement as members and guests indulged in a variety of activities. From playing pool to relishing mouth-watering pizza and scrumptious treats, the attendees enjoyed every moment. The vibrant atmosphere further enhanced by the music, dance, and socializing, making it a memorable experience, and adding another layer to the history of the hall itself. Leroy Kuyk, the esteemed Village of Vilna Mayor, and past president of the pool hall, greeted and welcomed everyone in attendance and led a prayer and a moment of silence, paying homage to the memory of the beloved Denise Hanson.

Carol Trider, the Vice President, took the stage to deliver a poignant and touching tribute to Violet Preston. She spoke about Violet's unwavering commitment and dedication to the hall. Her words were heartfelt and resonated throughout the room. Carol presented Violet with a commemorative plaque that highlighting her years of hard work. In addition, a cake was unveiled, adorned with a chocolate stiletto to represent Violet's iconic fashion statement - her 3-4-inch-high heels that she wears every single day. It was a touching celebration of her amazing devotion.

The talented Brothers Al Keller from Andrew, Alberta, and Hank Keller from Vilna, Alberta provided an outstanding live music performance, entertaining the audience with period-appropriate favorites until the late hours of the evening. The executive expressed deep gratitude by presenting heartfelt letters of appreciation to the dedicated volunteers of the pool hall and to the generous individuals who donated valuable items to the residence's living museum, preserving the history of the community for future generations.

The Historic Vilna Pool Hall and Barber Shop has issued an invitation to the public. "The Historic Vilna Pool Hall and Barber Shop is open every Saturday from 10 am - 5 pm. Pool and Snooker costs $2/person/game for persons over 14 years old. The summer's Saturday prime rib burger BBQs start again on the May long weekend, and everyone is invited!"

A Celestial Gathering: Billy Rinn and friends marvel at the Solar Eclipse

Last week, amidst a celestial spectacle, Billy Rinn and his friend Liam Thompson gathered to witness the awe-inspiring event of a solar eclipse. Despite it being only a partial eclipse, the enthusiasm of Billy, who has recently delved deep into the realms of the universe, planets, stars, constellations, rockets, and space stations, knew no bounds. Such was his fervor for all things astronomical that his passion transcended the confines of the classroom, prompting a decision to skip school for this once-in-a-lifetime experience.

For Billy Rinn, the allure of the cosmos has become a captivating journey, one fueled by curiosity and a thirst for knowledge. His fascination with the universe knows no bounds, and every celestial event serves as a moment of profound wonderment. The solar eclipse, a celestial ballet between the sun, moon, and Earth, held a special place in his heart, beckoning him to witness its ethereal beauty firsthand.

Joined by his friend Liam Thompson, the duo embarked on a celestial adventure, armed with eclipse glasses and a sense of anticipation. As the moon gradually encroached upon the radiant face of the sun, casting a surreal shadow upon the Earth, Billy and Liam stood in awe of the cosmic dance unfolding before their eyes.

The partial eclipse, though not a total immersion into darkness, offered a glimpse into the intricate mechanics of our solar system. For Billy, it was a moment of connection with the vastness of space, a reminder of humanity's infinitesimal place in the grand tapestry of the cosmos.

As the sky darkened and the temperature dipped, Billy and Liam found themselves immersed in an otherworldly ambiance. The birds fell silent, and the landscape took on an eerie hue as the sun's rays struggled to pierce through the lunar veil. It was a moment of serenity amidst the chaos of the universe, a fleeting instance of celestial harmony.

For Billy Rinn, this experience served as a testament to the boundless wonders that await those who dare to look beyond the confines of our planet. His passion for the universe, ignited by the splendor of the solar eclipse, only continues to grow, fueling his desire to explore the mysteries of the cosmos further.

As the eclipse drew to a close and the sun emerged once more, casting its warm embrace upon the Earth, Billy and Liam exchanged knowing glances. In that shared moment, amidst the vastness of space, they found a bond forged by the sheer majesty of the universe. And as they bid farewell to the eclipse, they carried with them memories that would last a lifetime, a testament to the enduring allure of the cosmos and the unyielding spirit of exploration that resides within us all.

Sturgeon County Council approves 2024 property tax rates

Sturgeon County Council approved a 1.37 per cent municipal tax rate increase. This means a property valued at $500,000 will pay $26 more in municipal taxes in 2024. A business valued at $1 million will pay $148 more.

Property taxes help pay for municipal services, including snow clearing, road and bridge construction and maintenance, parks and trail improvements, drainage infrastructure, animal control, and much more. Some highlights from Sturgeon County's 2024 Budget include:

- New investment in much needed fire services equipment to elevate community safety.
- Open space development with construction of pathways enhancing recreational access for residents.
- Major Infrastructure improvements including:
  - Paving of Range Road 231 from Gibbonslea subdivision north to the railway tracks.
  - Paving of Range Road 251 from south of the Cardiff

Golf Course to the entrance on Carbondale Road.

"This year's budget and tax rate demonstrates we are not without our challenges and must react to maintain service levels amid rising costs outside of our control," said Mayor Alanna Hnatiw.

"While we understand any increase may be challenging for residents and business owners, we believe this is a responsible and balanced decision that allows us to deliver on our commitments now and into the future."

Sturgeon County's 2024 Budget was developed through extensive Council discussion and public input. This budgetary increase ensures the County can continue delivering needed services while being mindful of the tax burden on residents.

Sturgeon County is committed to prudent financial management and the sustainable delivery of critical services for our growing community. In Budget 2024, Council carefully deliberated on various factors including inflationary pressures, infrastructure maintenance and improvement, service delivery levels, and more.

The 1.37 per cent increase is lower than the municipal tax rate previously considered during budget deliberations last December at 2.13 per cent. Since then, increased assessment values and an operating surplus from 2023 allowed Council to reduce the 2.13 per cent tax rate down to 1.37 per cent.

Residents' final property tax bills are dependent on their property's assessed value. Assessment details can be viewed online at SturgeonCounty.ca/PropertyMap.

The County is also required to collect additional education, seniors' lodging and Designated Industrial Property (DIP) tax on behalf of the Government of Alberta.

Learn more about the property assessment and tax program at SturgeonCounty.ca/Tax.

Great Grey Owls Vs Snowy Owls

By: Allyse Lund
Grade four student,
Thorhild Central School

Snowy and Great Grey Owls are alike and different in many ways. They are both alike and different in the way they look, the way they act, and what they eat. Read on to learn more about this topic.

Snowy and Great Grey Owls are alike in many ways. Most obviously they are both owls and more specifically, both birds of prey. This means that they hunt other animals for food. There are other ways these two owls are alike as well. In fact there are more than I can fit on this page but I can tell you some anyway. Both owls live in North America although Snowy Owls live in the Arctic while Great Greys live in less harsh conditions. I also need to teach you about the sad things and the saddest fact on this topic is that these beautiful creatures are both endangered. This is due to deforestation which lowers their food supply and destroys their habitats. Hopefully these owls can find their way off the endangered list.

All owls have differences and Snowy and Great Grey Owls are no exception. The way they are the most different in the way they look. Great Greys have grey, brown, and silver feathers while Snowy Owls are white and black with the odd characteristic of feathers on their feet. You might be saying to yourself 'well that's obvious' but did you know that Snowy Owls are not nocturnal like the Great Grey? Snowy Owls are diurnal which means they are awake in the daytime. Finally they are different in what they eat. While Snowy Owls only eat meat and are carnivores Great Greys eat both meat and plants. There are a lot of ways these owls are different.

I hope you enjoyed reading about the similarities and differences of the Snowy and Great Grey Owls. As I said earlier I could not include all of the ways these two owls are alike and different so if you want to learn more you can read other books or research on the internet. Maybe someday you could write about owls too.

Thorhild County hosts nesting box build

Lisa Card discusses the features and importance of the American Kestrels.

Vi uses a pail as a second set of hands for straight construction.

April & Margaret put the final screws in their nesting boxes.

By Brandie Majeau

American Kestrels are the smallest species of falcons found in North America. They are typically 8 to 12 inches long with a wingspan of about 20 inches. These birds of prey are known for their beautiful and distinctive coloration, with males having blue-gray wings and rusty-red backs, while females have brown wings and back. Both sexes have a prominent black vertical stripe below their eyes, which gives them the appearance of having a mustache and sideburns. They are known for their agile flight and hunting abilities, often preying on small mammals, birds, and insects.

Thorhild County offered residents a chance to come out to the Thorhild County

Ag Services building and construct their own Kestrel nesting boxes and learn a little about these amazing birds and the benefits of having them close by. Lisa Card, Barrhead-Westlock-Athabasca ALUS coordinator, gave the builders an informative crash course on the American Kestrel, pointing out their distinguishing looks and explaining their behavior and value.

Card explained that the Kestrel population is declining about 2% every year and due to deforestation and the destruction of their natural habitats, these cavity-nesting birds are relying more on manmade structures or nooks in buildings. A male kestrel will scout for appropriate spaces and attract their female to the area in hopes it is an acceptable location. Once a pair is established, these fierce predators can eliminate hundreds of rodents/year and eat lots of grasshoppers during years of infestation.

The group of Thorhild County builders constructed almost twenty new nesting boxes to provide summer homes for the American Kestrel. The nesting box workshop students also learned that these birds prefer their doors to face the south, enjoy an open prairie view and like their fellow Kestrel neighbours to be at least half a mile away. Card also explained to the eager builders that the nesting boxes should be situated away from homes, although American Kestrels are predatory friends, they are also incredibly smelly and messy yard guests.

Smoky Lake hosts second successful STARS fundraiser

By Brandie Majeau

The second annual STARS Fundraising Dinner hosted by the Smoky Lake Agricultural Society was an enormous success, attracting four hundred attendees. The event was held to support STARS Air Ambulance, which provides vital emergency medical assistance to the people of Alberta. The fundraiser guests were treated to a scrumptious meal and enjoyed an evening filled with fun and excitement. The fundraiser featured both live and silent auctions, raffles, and 50/50 draws, offering the guests a chance to win exciting prizes while supporting a worthy cause.

The evening culminated in a dance where the guests could dance the night away to the music of the Ryan Snow Band. Everyone had a wonderful time, and the event was a fantastic opportunity for the community to come together and show their support for such an important cause.

STARS Air Ambulance is a non-profit organization that plays a critical role in providing immediate, advanced medical care to critically ill or injured patients across the province of Alberta and is available 24/7, 365 days a year. In the 2022-23 fiscal year, STARS flew 3,365 missions from their six bases in Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba. STARS is funded by community donations and corporate partners, and its services are provided at no cost to patients or their families.

The organization was founded in 1985 in Calgary by Dr. Gregory Powell and other physicians. The tragic death of a pregnant woman in a rural community due to blood loss, leaving a father with a newborn baby, led to the establishment of STARS. The founders of STARS were determined to prevent such undue deaths and committed themselves to ensuring that no one would be without critical care in life-threatening situations, regardless of their location.

Thanks to the generosity of the attendees, the Smoky Lake Agricultural Society Stars Fundraiser raised an impressive $10,000. The funds raised will go a long way in supporting the valuable work done by the STARS Air Ambulance in providing emergency medical care.

Another swallow? Core inflation moving in the right direction

Mark Parsons,
ATB ECONOMICS

Last Wednesday, Tiff Macklem said the Bank of Canada is getting more confident inflation is heading in the right direction.

They just want to see more data to be convinced. Or in the words of Governor Macklem, “We’re seeing what we need to see. We just need to see it for longer”.

In other words, one swallow doesn’t make a summer, but maybe a couple more could.

Less than a week later, we now have another month of data, and it looks pretty good overall.

Yes, the headline annual inflation rate rose from 2.8% in February to 2.9% in March. But that was expected because of higher gasoline prices. Consumer prices excluding gasoline decelerated 0.1 points to 2.8% year-over-year (y/y).

The real progress came from trend or core inflation, which strips out some of the more volatile movements.

The trim measure of core prices eased 0.1 points to 3.1% y/y and the median measure dipped 0.2 points to 2.8% y/y. More importantly, annualized changes in the 3-month moving average, which strips out base year effects, are below 2% for both measures.

Shelter remains the key source of inflation, rising +6.5% y/y. Mortgage interest costs remain a big driver, adding nearly a percentage point to headline inflation (excluding mortgage costs CPI inflation was 2%). This effect will dissipate as rates shift lower. Rent inflation (+8.5% y/y) remains high and will likely prove more durable due to ongoing housing supply issues.

Food prices are very elevated, but they continue to rise at a slower annual rate. In March, the increase was 3.0% y/y.

So the burning question - is this enough to cut in June? On its own, probably not. But we do get another inflation print next month, and that could be the deciding factor. Either way, we are getting close.

We still think that the easing core inflation trend (if it holds), along with recent cracks in the labour market, would be enough for the Bank of Canada to justify rate cuts in June. But we wouldn’t be surprised if the Bank waits to cut in July to buy more time (and gather more data) and announce alongside a new set of projections.

In Alberta, the annual inflation rate eased from 4.2% to 3.5%, but remained above the national average due to faster growing energy prices.

Electricity prices continued to put upward pressure on headline inflation in Alberta, although the impact is fading. The 26% y/y increase was entirely due to base period effects, as $25 rebates and a rate cap of 13.5 cents kw/h were in place in March 2023. On a month-over-month basis, electricity prices have declined the last three months, and should soon start subtracting from the annual inflation rate.

Gasoline prices (up 10.4% y/y) added more to annual inflation in Alberta than nationally (up 4.5% y/y), with the partial reinstatement of the fuel tax starting January 1 likely a contributing factor. Natural gas prices fell between February and March, but remained 11% higher than a year ago due to low prices in March 2023.

Excluding energy and food prices, Alberta’s annual core inflation rate was 2.5% - below the national rate of 2.9%.
