By Brandie Majeau

The students from H.A. Kostash eagerly anticipated their visit to Bar-V-Nook Manor, where they looked forward to sharing their love for reading with the residents. The children rushed in as the doors swung open, their energy and excitement filling the senior's home. The young readers were enthusiastic to showcase their impressive literary skills, while the residents eagerly awaited to listen to the stories and offer words of encouragement when needed.

The act of reading is a powerful tool that serves as a bridge between different generations, enabling them to connect and engage in meaningful conversations about characters, themes, and experiences that resonate with their own lives. Literature serves as a gateway to new worlds, allowing individuals from different age groups to embark on a journey together, fostering a bond that can be mutually beneficial.

When older generations engage in reading activities with younger individuals, it's not just about alleviating feelings of loneliness

North Parkland Power reminisces on humble beginnings

By Brandie Majeau

North Parkland Power Ltd. has a rich history of serving the rural community for over seventy years. The company's origins can be traced back to a small collective of farmers and residents in the County of Thorhild. Frustrated by the reluctance of larger companies to bring electrical services to the area due to the cost of investing in remote locations, these determined individuals took matters into their own hands. They embarked on the ambitious task of raising funds and using their own equipment and manpower to carve out the necessary path for power lines, successfully bringing electricity to the small community.

As North Parkland Power reflected on the monumental achievement of bringing power to the area in 1953/54, they recently paid a visit to the Thorhild Lodge. There, they encountered many second-generation residents whose parents had been instrumental in founding the cooperative. Bearing boxes filled with treats and surprises, the North Parkland team sought to express their gratitude and recognition to the remarkable generation that laid the foundation for what the company has become today. The visit was not only an opportunity to share tokens of appreciation but also to hear stories, engage in conversations over snacks and coffee, and marvel at the extraordinary accomplishment of a small group of individuals dedicated to improving life in a rural town. With electricity so prevalent and readily available, it is hard to look back and understand the scale and impact of the undertaking, bringing power to rural Albertan communities.

Before the arrival of electricity, farm life offered little in the ways of conveniences and many still believed it to be unnecessary. However, as co-operatives formed and power made its way to rural farms and homes, a simple touch of a switch chased away the darkness and isolation and brought with it a change and a whole new world.

As a collective, the time and hard work of previous generations revolutionized the farm. Machines, lighting, heating, and automatic devices created a life that many could never have imagined.

North Parkland Power Ltd. warmly welcomes all its members to share their personal stories and recollections of when electricity was first introduced to their communities and individual homes. Each memory is a cherished part of the company's heritage, adding depth to its history. North Parkland Power expresses their overwhelming gratitude to the seniors and their parents before them whose backbreaking work and innumerable hours of commitment led to the advantages that are so commonplace today.

or staying informed about current trends. It's about something much more profound. It's about sharing life stories, imparting valuable lessons, and creating a legacy. It about bridges the gap between generations and fosters a sense of belonging and understanding.

For children, teens, and young adults, reading with older individuals cultivates a deep respect for the wisdom and experiences of older generations. It also enhances their communication skills, fosters cultural awareness, nurtures their imagination, and encourages the development of a flexible and open-minded personality. Intergenerational activity is vital for several reasons. It helps to reestablish the connections between different generations, promoting understanding and respect across age groups. Furthermore, it contributes to the development of individual competencies, creating a more inclusive society. By fostering intergenerational dialogue, collaboration and mutual learning between generations are encouraged.

Lastly, intergenerational exchange significantly contributes to the cultivation of solidarity, active citizenship, and personal development and can enhance the overall quality of education.

The H.A. Kostash student and resident reading time was a heartwarming sight. Smiles and laughter filled the building, showcasing the genuine anticipation and joy surrounding this special event. Each story shared was met with attentive ears, showing that the visit was truly a cherished and meaningful experience for all involved.

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

H.A. Kostash School

H.A. Kostash Elementary students in Smoky Lake worked hard cleaning up garbage and enjoyed some fun in the park afterward. They spent a lot of time picking up litter, ensuring the school grounds and surrounding areas were spotless. After their diligent efforts, they rewarded themselves with games and activities in the park, laughing and playing together. The sense of accomplishment and community spirit was evident.

Barbara Ann Gaboury stands beside two of the twenty-one 2D paintings that are hanging in the Redwater Art Society's Feature Artist Gallery. The collection of paintings is titled "The Wonder of Water". Various mediums and techniques are used to accomplish these artworks.

As a member of the Redwater Art Society, she finds that it is a great way to spend an afternoon, participating in workshops from member artist and instructors from various other locations in Alberta is enlightening. She has also taught some classes in the past. Visiting and having a sweet treat and coffee with other artists is, also, a pleasure.

When becoming a member of the Redwater Art Society there are many perks. Members have an art walk program where they hang their works in various business in the Town of Redwater. This is great for the artists and, also, the businesses and the public. The painting is replaced every few months. Information about Alberta Wide shows is also shared.

The artists participate in many charity community events and promote the Town of Redwater and the Redwater Art Society.

Barbara Ann is the long-time curator of four galleries. They are the Members, the Past Artist, the Workshop and the Feature Artist Galleries. It is her pleasure to hang all the artist's pieces, but especially to have new members hang for the first time.

She also, curates the Redwater Pre-Christmas Art Sale and Alberta Community of Art Clubs Association show when the Northern Zone Show is held in the Town of Redwater,

She would encourage the public to come in and view our facilities and art works. Coffee is always on.

Radway Lions Club begins recycling program

By Brandie Majeau

The Radway Lions Club is embarking on a new initiative aimed at making a community impact and reducing battery waste within landfills. The "Make a Positive Impact Battery Recycling" project encourages community members to recycle their household batteries in one of their receptacles located throughout Thorhild County. Currently, these receptacles can be found at Thorhild Grocery or Thorhild Hardware locations. The Radway Lions Club thanks North Corridor Co-op for becoming their first community partner. Recycling batteries can help prevent harmful chemicals from leaching into the soil and water, reducing the environmental impact.

Radway Lions consider safety as a top priority. To ensure everyone's safety and reduce potential risks of fire, they kindly ask that all battery ends are taped or individually bagged before depositing them in the recycling receptacles. They have taken extra precautions by securing a roll of masking tape to each receptacle, making it as convenient as possible for individuals to adhere to this safety measure.

The Radway Lions Club believes that the success of this initiative lies in a collective effort. If any organization shares the vision for a cleaner world and is interested in partnering to become a collection site, they are warmly invited to contact radwaylionsclub@gmail.com. The Radway Lions encourage all individuals to join them on this important initiative. Individual participation is crucial in expanding the reach of this battery recycling project and making a positive impact on the environment.

crafted designs that enrich the senses and elevates a spiritual awareness. The church design features two corner structures resembling the corner towers of ancient Byzantine Basilicas in Europe, each crowned with an octagonal drum and a small dome supporting a wrought-iron Roman Cross. The interior painting, a masterpiece by Walter Paschak from Winnipeg, is a true gem that took six months to complete.

The "Sandhills Church" stands as a physical representation of Ukrainian cultural and religious traditions, nestled amidst a landscape of sandy knolls. In the early 1900s, the area opened up to Ukrainian homesteaders following the extension of the Alberta & Great Waterways Railroad. These resilient settlers arrived with little material wealth but carried an abundance of hope, faith, and a rich cultural heritage. In 1913, Father Basil Ladyka made history by conducting an open-air mass on the 10-acre site, generously provided by local homesteader Michael Horbach. This church stands as a testament to the enduring faith and dedication of the early Ukrainian settlers in this region.

Beyond its architectural and artistic significance, the church also has deep-rooted connections to the surrounding rural area. The current church was built on the original location of the first church, which was relocated in 1939 to make way for the new construction. Even after its relocation, the original church continued to serve the community as a food preparation area until 1966 when it was sold, moved off the land, and eventually destroyed by fire. The only surviving item from the original church is the original cross forged by Kazimir Olchowy. The church's location has been a welcoming place for the community for over a century and is still actively maintained by a devoted congregation.

The History of Thorhild County is a thoroughly engaging tour that takes participants on a captivating journey through true historic stories. The tour offers a fascinating glimpse into the past, with Sandhills Church serving as just one of the many intriguing pieces in the county's rich tapestry of history. It's a truly immersive experience that reveals the hidden gems of the county's captivating past.
