

CP Railways: a piece of western history

By Brandie Majeau

When the final spike was set in 1885, the completed Canadian transcontinental railway played a crucial role in connecting a nation and facilitating the settlement of the Prairies by farmers.

The railway's necessity to promote agriculture in the West was reciprocated by its dependence on farmers and ranchers for maintaining profitability through the shipping and receiving of agricultural products.

Until the 1950s, the absence of all-weather roads meant that various goods were ordered from catalogues and shipped via rail to local towns.

The mutual relationship between railways and agriculture was essential for Western Canada's economic development.

The railway served as the primary mode of transporting goods and people until the development of all-weather roads in the 1950s and 1960s.

The railway was vital for moving agricultural products in bulk, a role it continues to play in many cases today.

Historically, rail companies actively promoted settlement in Western Canada to European audiences through advertising campaigns and demonstration farms.

In addition to its economic significance, the railway functioned as the communication network for many communities.

The local railway stations acted as hubs for exchanging news in an era before the introduction of telephones and the internet.

Railway companies held significant influence on the development of towns, often determining their locations based on the positioning of railway stations.

This resulted in the standard layout of communities, with a

The fair provided an excellent platform for the local community to come together, support local businesses, and explore the wide range of services available in the area.

The Smoky Lake Street Fair was a vibrant community showcase, thanks to the active participation of over forty vendors, clubs, support service organizations, and businesses.

The organizers extend their sincere gratitude to everyone who participated and attended the fair, as their involvement was instrumental in creating the event's festive atmosphere.

Street fairs are an excellent way to break free from the monotony of everyday life, offering a chance for communities to come together and reap various tangible benefits.

Organized by local groups and Chambers of Commerce, this vibrant festival not only attracted new visitors to the neighbourhood, but also boosted community morale through shared experiences and regional economy through increased sales and business exposure.

By showcasing local businesses, welcoming new artists, new food and drink vendors, and highlighting the unique character of the neighborhood, the Smoky Lake Street Fair played a crucial role in nurturing sustainable, community-centered commerce.

Held in the heart of Smoky Lake, Main Street became an event that held a diverse array of booths selling goods and food, as well as providing valuable information to all attendees.

The graduating class, who provided delicious burgers, and Paulo, who delivered outstanding musical entertainment, deserve special recognition.

Egremont Community Club sets goal to build new hall

By Brandie Majeau

The Egremont Community Club is always creating excitement and activity, bringing together local residents for various events and opportunities for camaraderie.

Throughout the year, this incredible team of volunteers work tirelessly to organize an array of engaging activities, from Egremont Days and Mother's Day Luncheons to friendly competitive Crib Tournaments and Saturday afternoon Market Days.

This past summer, the Egremont

Community Club introduced lunch specials at their weekly Saturday Markets, offering visitors the chance to stop by and shop for local goods and take a minute to sit down and enjoy a delicious sandwich and salad while meeting up with friends.

The recent Garlic Festival was a huge hit, as always, drawing garlic enthusiasts from near and far who indulged in a mouthwatering array of garlic-infused dishes.

As the community transitions into September, the Egremont Community Club is already gearing up for its next event.

On September 28, 2024, they will be hosting a savory steak supper feast, followed by a dance complete with a live band and a silent auction held alongside.

Tickets are priced at $35 per person, and all proceeds contribute to the ongoing efforts to rebuild the historic Egremont Hall.

For those looking to support this cause, the club invites everyone to join them for a night of fun on September 28 and to keep an eye out for upcoming events such as pub nights starting on September 13 from 4 pm to 10 pm; pub nights will also be featuring an appetizer menu. Every ticket purchased, and every visit to the community hall, brings the Egremont Community Club closer to their goal of rebuilding a cherished symbol of unity and community spirit in the area.

While the building has held many memories of weddings, celebrations, and events, Egremont Community Club looks forward to preserving those memories and adding many more, even when an updated structure takes place.

Starting October 2, 2024, due to changes in Canada Post's Consumer's Choice program, some residents in the communities we serve may no longer receive the Review in their mailboxes. If you are affected, you can still view the Review online at www.theredwaterreview.com or subscribe to the print edition by contacting us at redwaterreview@gmail.com.

Change to Consumers' Choice program regarding community newspapers

Canada Post respects Canadians' choices when it comes to receiving unaddressed advertising mail delivered by their postal service. That's why our Consumers' Choice program offers a simple way for Canadians to stop receiving it.

Community newspapers are currently exempted from the Consumers' Choice program. However, to respect Canadians' choices, we are updating our approach to the delivery of community newspapers that contain commercial inserts. Effective January 8, 2024, community newspapers with commercial inserts or enclosures will no longer be delivered to addresses that are signed up for the Consumers' Choice program.

We will continue to deliver public interest materials to all addresses. This includes community newspapers (and community newspapers with inserts of a public interest nature). It also includes mailings from elected representatives, political parties, government departments and agencies at the federal, provincial, territorial and municipal levels, as well as band councils. Visit canadapost.ca/consumerschoice to learn more.

Consumers' Choice Acknowledgement Notice (33-086-558) will be updated to reflect this change. This will be effective October 2, 2024. You may not receive newspapers in your mailbox effective this date.

railway thoroughfare running parallel to the tracks and a main street intersecting near the station. The need for many railway stations diminished as agriculture evolved from smaller to larger operations. Following that change, many branch lines were dismantled, resulting in population declines in various small towns. However, many small towns have held on to those pieces of a time when the railway created bustling towns throughout rural Alberta and beyond.

Due to its significant role in shaping the history and economy of Western Canada, these small towns and communities dedicate considerable efforts to safeguard the remnants of the Canadian

By Brandie Majeau

The Radway Public Library concluded its Summer Reading Program with an engaging craft day on August 21 that was filled with creativity and excitement.

The children enthusiastically participated in a hands-on activity, mixing, and shaping their own colorful slime/gak.

Throughout the summer, the library offered a diverse range of entertainment, ensuring that there was something for everyone.

From lively game days on Tuesdays and Thursdays to outdoor sessions that allowed the children to revel in the sunshine and fresh air, fostering a sense of camaraderie and fun.

In case of inclement weather, the library seamlessly transitioned to teaching an assortment of captivating board and card games, ensuring that the young participants were constantly engaged. This variety of activities kept the children excited and looking forward to each session, and the Radway Public Library is thrilled to continue this trend in all future programs.

On Wednesday afternoons, the children were treated to a spectrum of creative experiences under the guidance of Dena Buryn, the summer activity coordinator.

Her imaginative craft projects captivated the children's interest and fueled their creativity week after week.

The Radway Public Library stands as a shining example of how local libraries can bring joy and learning to the community's youth through a rich tapestry of activities and events.

The library staff and volunteers play a crucial role in turning possibilities into realities.

They carefully select and organize programs that cater to the community's specific needs, whether it is welcoming new residents, literacy, creativity, or community engagement.

Their dedication and hard work significantly impacts the daily lives of community members.

Whether they are leading children's programming or catering to adults, each staff member and volunteer is deeply valued for their instrumental role and the time and effort they devote to everything they do.

For the children in Radway, their summer experience was completely transformed into a fascinating weekly whirlwind of fun, all thanks to the diligent efforts of Radway Public Library's librarian, Sandra Moschansky, and program coordinator, Dena Buryn.

SHARE THE ROAD AND BE PATIENT

It's harvest season, which often means that large, slow-moving farm equipment is on roads and highways. Please slow down, be patient and share the road with our agriculture producers as they move their equipment from field to field. Be sure to give farm equipment space and only pass when it's safe.

KING CHARLES III CORONATION MEDAL

A special Canadian medal has been created to celebrate the Coronation of King Charles III on May 6, 2023. It aims to recognize 30,000 outstanding individuals from all walks of life who have made a difference in their communities.

Partner organizations will nominate and present medals, with details available on their websites at www.gg.ca/en/honours/list-nominating-partner-organizations. Members of Parliament can also put forward up to 20 nominations.

To be eligible for this honour, a person must:

- Have made significant contributions to Canada, a province, territory, region or community.
- Have been alive on May 6, 2023, the date His Majesty was crowned.
- Self-nominations are not accepted.
- Nominations should focus on individuals who have helped build today's Canada.
- The Medal is awarded to individuals only, not groups or couples.

To nominate someone for a national honour, contact MP Shannon Stubbs's office at Shannon.Stubbs@parl.gc.ca or call 780-657-7075 for a nomination package with medal details and eligibility criteria.

ON-FARM EFFICIENCY PROGRAM

The Sustainable Canadian Agricultural Partnership has launched the On-Farm Efficiency Program (OFEP), which combines the previous Farm Technology and Efficient Grain Handling programs with new opportunities based on industry feedback from 2023.

The program supports producers in optimizing agricultural inputs such as fertilizer, pesticides, and energy to benefit both producers and the environment. OFEP has four streams: Smart Farm Technology, Energy Efficiency, Farm Security, and Efficient Grain Handling.

The maximum funding per stream throughout the program is $50,000 for smart farm technology, $50,000 for energy efficiency, $2,000 for farm security, and $100,000 for efficient grain handling. You can learn more about the funding opportunities at www.alberta.ca/on-farm-efficiency-program.
