Local artists submit tiles to Canadian mural

By Brandie Majeau

The Canada Mosaic Mural project was initiated in 2015 to commemorate Canada's 150th anniversary. Its goal is to create a national mural that includes contributions from all provinces and territories, consisting of 150 individual murals and hundreds of thousands of paintings, forming a gigantic mural mosaic over 365 meters wide and 2.5 meters high. The project aims to reflect Canada's cultural and geographical diversity, serving as a historical time capsule and inspiring future generations. Each community will participate by producing their own mural, which will contribute to the overall mosaic and remain as a legacy in their respective locations.

Local Redwater artists have embarked on a journey to be a part of these unique projects and have submitted their tiles to be a part of a national mural mosaic. Jeannie Hare, Terri Hannah, Ophelia McKenna, and Ian Morris from the Redwater Art Society have all submitted tiles the Global Roots Project (Nature's Dream) and anxiously await as the Active Grid Tiles for the project are constantly placed and moved as the mural takes form.

At present, the Canada Connects Nature's DREAM

The Grade 6 class at H.A. Kostash School recently embarked on an exciting educational adventure that took them beyond the traditional classroom walls. This unique opportunity allowed the students to attend a Smoky Lake County Council meeting, where they gained invaluable insights into the workings of local government.

During the meeting, all the councillors, along with Reeve Serben, graciously dedicated their time to engage with the students. They patiently answered a wide range of questions, enabling a deeper understanding of community governance and civic responsibility. The

This special occasion was not only a celebration of a decade of service and dedication but also an opportunity to reflect on the numerous achievements the club has made within the community over the years.

The anniversary event was graced by esteemed Kin Dignitaries, who joined the club members in recognizing the impact of their local initiatives and Throughout its ten-year journey, the Kinette Club has worked tirelessly to support various community projects, uplift those in need, and create a spirit of collaboration among residents.

Looking forward, the Kinette Club of Smoky Lake is filled with optimism and excitement as they set their sights on the next ten years. Their commitment to addressing the evolving needs of the Town of Smoky Lake remains unwavering, and they are eager to continue their mission of serving the community in meaningful ways.

The club extends its heartfelt gratitude to everyone who has supported their fundraising efforts over the past decade. Canadian mural

Mural Mosaic is an exciting project in development, with submission deadlines approaching on January 31, 2025.

This masterpiece is being meticulously crafted by the talented artist Lewis Lavoie, who employs a unique method of arranging tiles according to their shape and color within each section he is working on. This approach means that tiles may not be placed in the sequence they are received, reflecting the creative process's dynamic nature.

The production of the mural is anticipated to span several months, culminating in a grand unveiling set for Autumn 2025. Participants who are eagerly awaiting the incorporation of their tiles are encouraged to check back periodically for updates, as the tile arrangement is part of a SEARCH & FIND process. It is important to note that tiles can shift locations multiple times as the mural takes shape.

Lewis Lavoie collaborates closely with a technical support person to bring this magnificent mosaic to life. As the production phase concludes, a dedicated support team will reach out to all participants, providing a final opportunity for review when the complete list of contributors and corresponding tile numbers is posted on the grid page.

Overall, the extensive journey from the project's launch to its grand unveiling spans approximately 12 to 18 months.

To watch the Nature's Dream project come together, one tile at a time, individuals can visit www.muralmosaic.com/dream/.

students were particularly intrigued by the various discussions surrounding local issues, which illuminated the significant role that councillors play in shaping their community.

In addition to observing the council in action, the Grade 6 class participated in a spirited practice debate centered around a bylaw pertaining to cats. This firsthand experience allowed them to flex their own political skills, advocating for their viewpoints and considering the perspectives of others in a democratic setting. The combination of observation and participation made for an enriching experience, enlightening the students about the intricacies of local politics and encouraging their interest in civic engagement.

Kevin Lucas, Smoky Lake County CAO, remarked on the attendance and discussions of the H.A.Kostash grade 6 class, "They all debated the conversation respectfully and meaningfully, respecting each others' opinions and points of view, building from what seemed simple to needing more information. We (Administration) were taken by their maturity and demeanour. In fact, three election cycles from now and we could see any of their names on a municipal ballot!"

Smoky Lake RCMP offers tips for snowbirds and holiday travelers to prevent mail theft while away

Whether you're escaping to sunnier locations or you're visiting family and friends, the RCMP is urging snowbirds and holiday travelers to take extra precautions to protect their mail and deliveries while they are away, keeping their property secure and preventing opportunistic theft.

Smoky Lake RCMP recommends the following measures to ensure your mail and packages remain secure during your absence:

- Canada Post offers a Mail Hold service, which temporarily stops mail delivery while you're away. Alternatively, you can use a Mail Forwarding service to have your mail sent to a trusted friend or family member's address for safekeeping.
- If you're planning a shorter trip, enlist the help of a trusted neighbour or friend to collect your mail and packages daily.
- If you're expecting deliveries while away, consider using a secure parcel locker or selecting a pick-up location with the delivery service.
- For long-term travelers, installing a secure mail slot or drop box can be an effective way to receive letters and small packages without worrying about them being stolen.
- A comprehensive home security system, including cameras, doorbell cameras, and motion-activated lighting, can deter thieves and alert you to any unusual activity at your property. Be sure to install visible signage indicating that your home is under surveillance, which can discourage potential mail thieves. Before leaving, be sure to pause any subscription services that deliver to your home, such as newspapers or magazines.

For more tips on how you can protect yourself from mail theft, follow us on Facebook @RCMPinAlberta and on X @RCMPAlberta.

Newbrook 4H Club is keeping busy

Submitted by Callie Wyness

In November, the foods and sewing parts of 4-H started up and are thriving. Both groups meet at least once a month. The food group started off by learning kitchen safety and different kitchen tools. Each time the food group meets they prepare something different, everything from grilled cheese to gingerbread cookies. At the start of December, the sewing group went to the Pea Patch in Thorhild to buy some fabric for their projects. When they were there, they also learned how a quilting machine works. They are working on some t-shirt quilts, and it will be interesting to see how those will turn out at the end of the year. The members with horse projects have been meeting twice a month to practice with their animals. The beef projects members reported at our meeting that they are starting to work with their animals, and they will have a feeding clinic later this month to learn more on beef nutrition. Now that January is here the swine members will be getting their animals, and those projects will get growing. The entire club participated in the Newbrook Christmas market on December 14th. They hosted a bake sale table with goodies that members made at home. This was one of our fundraising activities. At our monthly meetings which all members attend, our Clevers group keeps busy with different art activities. The club is working on trying to come up with some other fundraisers for the year of 2025. The club's Christmas party was on January 4th, 2025. The club went skating at the Newbrook arena with snacks to follow. We would also like to thank Thorhild County for the community grant that they so graciously gave us. That's all for now. Look out for our next 4-H article to see what's going on.

Reminder: Thorhild Arena has skate rentals

By Brandie Majeau

The Thorhild Agricultural Society, in collaboration with Thorhild Central School, has put in great effort to acquire a diverse range of skates and helmets in various sizes.

All used equipment from the school has been brought to the arena to include with the Thorhild Ag Society's purchased items. These items are now available for rent during public skating sessions, shinny hockey games, and used free of charge for school field trips. This program aims to create a well-stocked equipment closet, ensuring that every child and community members can enjoy winter arena sports without the financial burden of purchasing skates and helmets.

The Thorhild Agricultural Society's mission is to make winter sports accessible to all families in our community. By providing these rental options, they hope to encourage participation in ice activities, promoting a sense of community and encouraging physical activity among residents of all ages.

To take advantage of this opportunity, the rental cost for both skates and helmets is just $2 each. In addition, the fee to skate or participate in shinny hockey is also $2.

This means that for an individual, the total cost to rent equipment and enjoy a fun day of public skating would be only $6. The Thorhild Ag Society believes this affordable pricing model will enable more families to engage in these enjoyable winter activities and create lasting memories together.

They look forward to seeing everybody at the rink, and urge everyone to come out, have fun, and take part in the exciting winter sports that Thorhild County has to offer.

I spy...a great grey owl

By Brandie Majeau

Great Grey Owls, with their striking features and haunting presence, are one of Nature's most captivating birds. Known for their extraordinary size and unique appearance, they often evoke a sense of awe. Many individuals may hear them calling from a thicket of trees or catch a fleeting glimpse of the Great Grey as it dives from its perch, however, the reality is that most people will go their entire lives without ever encountering this bird in the wild. This rarity can be attributed to their tendency to inhabit remote areas and the limited data available regarding their actual population numbers, as indicated by federal wildlife agencies.

Great Grey Owls are not known for their communal behaviors; they do not flock and generally do not migrate long distances. Instead, they typically remain in the same geographical region throughout the year, breeding and wintering within the same areas.

The population of these owls is known to fluctuate significantly, largely influenced by the cyclical changes in the populations of their primary prey.

In Canada, the preferred habitat of Great Grey Owls consists of dense, wet evergreen forests, located in the farther northern regions. These owls are adept hunters, often found foraging in meadows, fields and predominantly open spaces.

Human activities, particularly forest harvesting, pose the greatest threat to their populations. The removal of crucial perch and nesting trees diminishes the quality of their breeding habitat, making it increasingly difficult for them to thrive.

Despite their elusive nature, there has been a noticeable increase in sightings of Great Grey Owls this year. For instance, a recent drive along a 40-kilometer stretch of highway yielded an astonishing twelve owls perched in treetops, on fence lines and upon power poles. This upsurge in visibility can largely be explained by the owls irruptive behavior. Irruptive species, such as the Great Grey Owl, experience occasional years where their numbers exceed the norm, prompting them to wander further afield than usual.

The underlying causes of these irruption years remain somewhat elusive and are not yet fully understood. However, several theories have emerged. One prominent explanation revolves around food availability during the breeding season. In years when prey populations are significantly abundant, Great Grey Owls may lay a greater number of eggs, leading to higher survival rates among the hatchlings. This population boom can result in increased competition for territory, forcing some owls to migrate south in search of new winter habitats. Alternatively, irruption years may also occur due to a shortage of food within their typical winter range, compelling them to journey further south to hunt for sustenance.

Great Grey Owls poses challenges due to their preference for remote, hard to access habitats. Nevertheless, despite the difficulties in understanding the precise dynamics of their population fluctuations, bird enthusiasts are fortunate to enjoy the breathtaking sight of these magnificent creatures during irruption years.

Redwater RCMP encourages rural residents to strengthen community safety through Rural Crime Watch

The Alberta RCMP, in partnership with the Alberta Provincial Rural Crime Watch Association, is encouraging residents in ranching, farming, and rural communities to join their local Rural Crime Watch group or consider forming a chapter in their area.

Established in 1978, the Rural Crime Watch program has grown into a vital voluntary initiative that fosters collaboration between rural residents and their local RCMP detachments. Its mission is to promote crime prevention through awareness, education, and proactive reporting of suspicious activity. The Alberta RCMP continues to work with community partners, such as Rural Crime Watch (RCW) and Citizens on Patrol (COP), to promote crime prevention awareness in communities throughout the province. RCW and COP volunteers support the Crime Reduction Strategy by acting as an extra set of “eyes and ears” in their communities.

Across Alberta, Rural Crime Watch associations are focusing their efforts on farmstead, acreage, and rural property security, as well as property identification and general crime awareness. Programs like Report a Poacher further extend the impact of the initiative, contributing to both rural safety and environmental stewardship.

Communities with active Rural Crime Watch groups often display signage at entry points, signaling their collective commitment to crime prevention. These signs not only deter potential criminals but also reflect the strong partnerships between local residents and law enforcement.

For more information on how to join or establish a Rural Crime Watch group in your area, visit www.rural-crimewatch.ab.ca
