

Transformative healing now available in Smoky Lake

By Brandie Majeau

Lyrehc Soul Healing has recently opened its doors in the community of Smoky Lake, where Cheryl offers an impressive array of healing services designed to promote holistic well-being. Her offerings include alternative healing practices such as Intuitive Healing, Tarot Reading, and Shadow Work Coaching. With 14 years of experience as a licensed massage therapist, Cheryl has recently transitioned to providing massages combined with energy healing. This strategic shift aims to attract the right clientele—those who are genuinely ready for transformational healing.

Cheryl firmly believes that while massage therapy provides soothing relief, it often fails to address the underlying causes of physical pain. Consequently, clients may find themselves returning with the same issues. By exploring the energy roots behind their discomfort, Cheryl guides her clients through a deeper understanding of their pain, facilitating a journey that empowers them to release it permanently.

Additionally, her massage sessions, which include Reiki and energy healing, can be claimed through many personal health benefits just like traditional massage therapy. Integrating energy clearing into massage promotes profound physical relaxation and the release of somatic energy, which encompasses emotions and trauma trapped within the body. Cheryl possesses the unique ability to intuitively read this energy and articulate what is being released during the session, shedding light on the lessons tied to those experiences. By fostering consciousness around their beliefs and perspectives on past events, clients can finally release any karmic contracts that may have kept them stuck in repetitive cycles of suffering.

Cheryl emphasizes the importance of touch in her practice, stating, "Touch is extremely helpful in calming the nervous system and allowing people to let their defenses down when they are stuck in fight or flight." By empathically connecting with her clients' energies, she skillfully unravels their emotional tangles, providing a sense of co-regulation that offers peace and security.

Having grown up in a small town with limited resources, Cheryl is deeply committed to her personal mission: to cultivate an environment that promotes healthy development for rural

The mission of Lyrehc Soul Healing is to provide life-changing, soul-deep truth and healing experiences that help clients reconnect with their true self-expression, steering them away from survival mechanisms and shame-based behaviors. The results of her work are truly remarkable; clients who clear underlying distractions often find themselves empowered to manifest the things they genuinely desire in life. Recognizing that the world is interconnected, each brave choice to heal contributes to a larger shift, transforming pain into wholeness, one ripple at a time.

Wear a pink shirt...or find a pink duck

By Brandie Majeau

Pink Shirt Day was officially recognized on February 26, with its origins tracing back to 2007 in Nova Scotia, Canada. The observance began when a high school student faced bullying for wearing a pink shirt to school, prompting two fellow students to take action. They encouraged their peers to wear pink in solidarity, sparking a movement against bullying that has since gained global momentum.

Each year, Pink Shirt Day serves as a reminder to individuals and communities everywhere to take a stand against bullying. It encourages people, especially Albertans, to embrace inclusivity, foster welcoming environments, and support each other—be it among colleagues, clients, friends, or family members. One of the most effective ways to combat bullying is by building strong, positive relationships that encourage open communication and respect.

In Smoky Lake, this commitment to combating bullying was exemplified by an initiative led by the Smoky Lake Youth Council called the Paint the Town Pink Kindness Campaign. Running from February 24 to 28, local businesses enthusiastically participated in this campaign to raise awareness about bullying. They adorned their storefronts with vibrant pink decorations, creating an eye-catching and cohesive display throughout the town.

Through this collective effort, the community aimed to spread kindness and positivity, reinforcing the message that together, they stand against bullying. By “going pink,” residents of Smoky Lake highlighted the importance of compassion and support, creating a more inclusive atmosphere that emphasizes the significance of empathy and kindness in building safe environments for everyone.

The Smoky Lake Youth Council had also been creatively spreading awareness for Pink Week by hiding pink rubber ducks throughout the town. Each duck is strategically placed in various locations to encourage residents to embark on a fun little treasure hunt of sorts. Those fortunate enough to discover a duck were invited to share by tagging the youth council on social media. Along with the tag, participants were challenged to follow the positive action encouraged by the duck they found—for example, they might be inspired to compliment someone or perform another act of kindness.

A call to action...

By Brandie Majeau

The Thorhild County Family Centre, in collaboration with the Thorhild Library, is excited to announce a new program called "Action to Happiness." This program is specifically designed for parents and caregivers, offering a unique opportunity to connect with others in the community, cultivate gratitude, and build meaningful relationships. Participants will also gain valuable tools to navigate life's challenges with resilience and optimism.

The program spans six consecutive weeks, starting on March 20, and will take place each Thursday at the Thorhild Library from 6:00 PM to 8:00 PM. Each session will focus on uplifting conversations, engaging activities, and practical strategies aimed at enhancing overall well-being.

Throughout the program, participants will be encouraged to engage in self-reflection, allowing for personal growth and development. A diverse range of activities will be provided, including interactive workshops, group discussions, and mindfulness exercises, all tailored to encourage and develop greater happiness in daily life. The Action to Happiness program will walk you through a variety of activities throughout each week.

A sneak peek into the first week of Action to Happiness prepares participants to practice gratitude. Practicing gratitude every day can improve your well-being. A simple way to start is by keeping a gratitude journal where you write down three things you are thankful for each day. You can also use a gratitude jar; write notes about your gratitude and put them in the jar. At the end of the month, read through them to remember those positive moments. Sharing your gratitude with others helps too. You can do this through thank-you notes, messages, calls, or in-person chats. Spreading positivity strengthens relationships.

As the program builds upon itself, Action to Happiness will encourage bedtime/evening practices, situational focus and control, setting boundaries and utilizing challenges for person growth opportunities. The program encourages building meaningful relationships, quality time with family and friends and creating shared experiences. As the program draws
